is pleased to announce a call for papers for the 4th interdisciplinary doctoral academic conference

”Research of Young Scientists Inspired by Christianity”

The conference will take place on 23rd-24th May 2019 in Aula of the building of Pontifical University of John Paul II in Krakow at Bernardyńska Street 3.

We invite all PhD students and young scientists specialising in widely understood humanities, in particular:

- theology (including as well: biblical/historical/semantic theology)
- history (including as well: archeology, historiography, archival science)
- arts (including as well: art. history)
- philosophy (including as well: social/political philosophy, ethics, bioethics, aesthetics, anthropology, ecophilosophy)
- social sciences (including as well: family science, sociology, social politics)
- canon law (including as well: ecclesiastical/concordate law)

The organizers of the conference want to create an interdisciplinary space for exchange of research thoughts and experiences between the representatives of various branches of humanities. The key word for all these scientific reflections is supposed to be CHRISTIANITY, which since the first centuries of its existence constituted an inexhaustible source of inspiration for theological intellectualisation, historical research, works of art, philosophical delving, social thought or legal solutions. During the conference young academics will have an opportunity to present their research outcomes connected at least to some extent with the phenomenon of Christianity –from its beginnings until nowadays.
